introduction

The Judicial Appointments Advisory Board (hereafter “the Board”) was established pursuant to the Courts and Court Officers Act, 1995 (hereafter “the Act”). The purpose of the Board is to identify persons and inform the Government of the suitability of those persons for appointment to judicial office.

The Board consists of (Section13):

- ◆ the Chief Justice;
who is Chairperson of the Board;
- ◆ the President of the High Court;
- ◆ the President of the Circuit Court;
- ◆ the President of the District Court;
- ◆ the Attorney General;
- ◆ a practising barrister who is nominated by the Chairman for the time being of the Council of the Bar of Ireland;

- ◆ a practising solicitor who is nominated by the President for the time being of the Law Society of Ireland; and
- ◆ not more than three persons appointed by the Minister for Justice, Equality and Law Reform, (hereafter “the Minister”), which are persons engaged in or having knowledge or experience of commerce, finance, administration, or persons who have experience as consumers of the service provided by the courts that the Minister considers appropriate.

A person appointed to be a member of the Board by virtue of a nomination by the Chairman of the Bar Council or by the President of the Law Society and persons appointed by the Minister are members of the Board for a period not exceeding three years and any such persons so appointed shall be eligible for re-appointment to the Board.

The Act (Section 14) enables the Board to adopt such procedures as it thinks fit to carry out its functions and, in the exercise of that power, the Board has adopted rules and procedures which are contained in Appendix i to this report. They also have power to appoint sub-committees to assist them and may:

- ◆ advertise for applications for judicial appointment;
- ◆ require applicants to complete application forms;
- ◆ consult persons concerning the suitability of applicants to the Board;
- ◆ invite persons identified by the Board to submit their names for consideration by the Board;
- ◆ arrange for the interviewing of applicants who wish to be considered by the Board for appointment to judicial office; and
- ◆ do such other things as the Board considers necessary to enable it to discharge its functions under the Act.

The extent to which these powers have been availed of by the Board is considered in Section 3 of this report.

Section 16 of the Act deals with the submission of names to the Minister. A person who wishes to be considered for appointment to judicial office is required to so inform the Board in writing and to provide the Board with such information as it may require to enable it to consider the suitability of that person for judicial office, including information relating to education, professional qualifications, experience and character. To assist the Board in this regard the applicants are required to complete a detailed application form which includes questions on their practice, their professional qualifications, education, character, etc., and are also required to outline on their application form why they consider themselves suitable for judicial office.

This Section goes on to provide that where a judicial office stands vacant or before a vacancy in a judicial office arises, the Board, at the request of the Minister, is to submit to the Minister the names of all persons who have informed the Board of his or her wish to be considered for appointment to that judicial office and the Board shall submit the names of at least seven persons whom it recommends for appointment. The Board must also provide the Minister with particulars of education, professional qualification, experience and character of the persons whom it recommends under this Section.

Where fewer than seven persons inform the Board of their wish to be appointed to judicial office or where the Board is unable to recommend to the Minister at least seven persons, the Board may recommend to the Minister a lesser number of persons for appointment.

Where more than one judicial office in the same court stands vacant or in advance of more than one vacancy arising in the same court, the Board shall recommend at least seven persons in respect of each vacancy or such lesser number of names as the Minister specifies, following consultation with the Board.

Section 16 of the Act goes on to require the Government when advising the President in relation to the appointment of a person to a judicial office to first consider persons who have been recommended by the Board. When a person is appointed on a recommendation by the Board, notice of that fact shall be published in Iris Oifigiúil.

The Board shall not submit or recommend the name of a person unless that person meets the eligibility requirements laid down by statute. Further, the Board shall not recommend the name of any person unless in the opinion of the Board the person concerned:

- ◆ has displayed in his/her practice as a barrister or solicitor, as the case may be, a degree of competence and a degree of probity appropriate to and consistent with the appointment concerned;
- ◆ is suitable on grounds of character and temperament;
- ◆ is otherwise suitable; and
- ◆ complies with the requirements of Section 19 of the Act.

Having received the advice of counsel, the Board interprets these requirements as a minimum standard. A person must have these qualities to be recommended, but having these qualities is in itself not sufficient for a person to be recommended.

Under Section 17 of the Act (as amended), the procedures set out above do not apply where the Government proposes to advise the President to appoint to judicial office a person who is for the time being a Judge of the High Court, Circuit Court, District Court or who is eligible for appointment to the Supreme Court or the High Court under the provisions of Section 5 of the Courts (Supplemental Provisions) Act, 1961, as amended.

Section 18 of the Act provides that the Board shall not recommend its own members for appointment, with the exception of the Attorney General who must withdraw from any deliberations of the Board concerning his or her suitability for judicial office.

Section 19 of the Act requires a person who wishes to be considered for appointment to judicial office to undertake in writing to the Board his or her agreement, if appointed to judicial office, to take such course or courses of training or education, or both, as may be required by the Chief Justice or the President of the Court to which the person concerned is appointed.

Under Section 23 of the Act, where the Government proposes to advise the President of an appointment to the office of Chief Justice or President of the High Court, President of the Circuit Court or President of the District Court, it is required first to have regard to the qualifications and suitability of persons who are serving at that time as judges in courts established in pursuance of Article 34 of the Constitution.

There have been some amendments to the procedures followed by the Board since 1995:

a. The Standards in Public Office Act, 2001

requires applicants to certify that their tax affairs are in order. Section 22 (1) prohibits the Board from recommending a person for judicial office unless the person has furnished to the Board:

- (I) a tax clearance certificate that was issued to the person not more than eighteen months before the date of the recommendation, and
- (II) a statutory declaration made by the person not more than one month before that date to the effect that, at the time of the making of the declaration, the person is, to the best of his or her knowledge and belief, in compliance with the obligations specified in subsection (1) of section 25 and that nothing in subsection (2) of that section prevents the issue to him or her of a tax clearance certificate.

- b. The criteria for selection to the Supreme and High Courts has been amended by Section 8 of the Courts and Court Officers Act 2002.

The purpose of this amendment seems to be to ensure that solicitors appointed to the Supreme and High Courts (as they are now eligible to be under Section 5 of the 1961 Act, as amended by Section 4 of the 2002 Act) are sufficiently conversant with practice and procedure in the Superior Courts.

It is best to quote these directly:

Subsection (7)

- b) (i) "The Board shall recommend a person to the Minister under this section only if the Board is of the opinion that the person:
- (i) has displayed in his or her practice as a barrister or a solicitor a degree of competence and a degree of probity appropriate to and consistent with the appointment concerned,
  - (ii) in the case of an appointment to the office of ordinary judge of the Supreme Court or of ordinary judge of the High Court, has an appropriate knowledge of the decisions, and an appropriate knowledge and appropriate experience of the practice and procedure, of the Supreme Court and the High Court,
  - (iii) is suitable on the grounds of character and temperament,
  - (iv) complies with the requirements of section 19 of this Act, and
  - (v) is otherwise suitable.

- b) (ii) In determining whether the requirements of subparagraph (i)(ii) of this paragraph are satisfied, the Board shall have regard, in particular, to the nature and extent of the practice of the person concerned insofar as it relates to his or her personal conduct of proceedings in the Supreme Court and the High Court whether as an advocate or as a solicitor instructing counsel in such proceedings or both".

In the carrying out of its functions, the Board each year places advertisements calling on all those who wish to be considered for appointment to judicial office to apply to the Board. Additionally, all those who already have applications on file are requested to re-apply. Applications are valid for the calendar year in which the application is made.

There is a separate standard application form for each court level. Each completed application form must be accompanied by twelve original photographs. As previously stated, under Section 22 of the Standards in Public Office Act, 2001, the Board cannot recommend a person to the Minister unless that person has furnished to the Board the relevant tax clearance certificate (TC4) issued to that person not more than eighteen months before the date of recommendation and a statutory declaration that their tax affairs are in order, made by the person not more than one month before that date. In practice, the tax clearance certificate is submitted with the application form or on the expiration of a certificate previously provided. The Secretary to the Board writes to all applicants in advance of a meeting to request the statutory declaration.

The process of considering persons and submitting names to the Minister commences when the Minister communicates with the Chairman of the Board to request recommendations where a judicial vacancy exists or is due to arise. The Chairman then agrees a suitable date with the Secretary, who informs the members of the Board. The members are given an agenda for the meeting, including a copy of the Ministers request (which indicates the number and jurisdiction of the vacancy(ies)) and a copy of all applications on file for the relevant jurisdiction(s).

Following the Board meeting, the Secretary to the Board corresponds with the Bar Council and the Law Society, as appropriate, asking them to verify that those who are to be recommended are in good standing with those professional bodies and that they meet the statutory requirements under the Courts (Supplemental Provisions) Act 1961 (as amended). Once a reply has been received, the Chairman writes to the Minister, setting out the Board's recommendations.

applications

During the period that this report is concerned with, the Board met on four occasions to consider applications in respect of five judicial vacancies.

A further change took place in December 2006 when The Hon. Mr. Justice Joseph Finnegan, former President of the High Court, was appointed a Judge of the Supreme Court. The Hon. Mr. Justice Richard Johnson was appointed President of the High Court in December 2006 and consequently became a member of the Board.

conclusions & recommendations

The Board publishes advertisements from time to time inviting persons who wish to be considered for appointment to judicial office to submit their names to the Board. Applicants are required to complete extensive application forms and the nature of the information sought by these forms is kept under regular review by the Board.

Having regard to the large number of applications which are received in respect of vacancies in the Circuit and District Courts, the Board has availed of its power to appoint a sub-committee when dealing with such applications. While the final decision as to whether to recommend a particular candidate must always remain with the Board, availing of the sub-committee procedure has greatly assisted the Board in the efficient conduct of its business.

In 2004 the Board issued an 'invitation to tender' to assist and advise the Judicial Appointments Advisory Board in the areas of selection and identification of persons suitable for appointment to judicial office. This item was significantly progressed in 2004 and a consultancy firm was appointed in 2005. The consultancy firm presented their draft report to the Board in late 2005 and a subcommittee of the Board has been established to review the contents of the report.

The Board has not to date availed of its power to arrange for the interviewing of applicants. There are serious practical obstacles to the Board conducting such a process routinely and generally the Board has sufficient information in particular that provided by the applicants themselves to carry out its function in each instance. This is in the context that the Board does not have any function in deciding who should be appointed to judicial office. Moreover, the Board in submitting the names of persons whom it considers suitable for appointment does not make a decision or give an indication with regard to the relative merits of persons so submitted. The Board will continue to have regard to the option of interviewing applicants should this be considered necessary in particular circumstances.

The Board has also not availed of its power to invite persons identified by it to submit their names for consideration by the Board. There are clearly serious practical difficulties in exercising that power in the case of a body such as the Board whose role is to submit the names of persons who are suitable for appointment rather than decide who should be appointed.

The Board indicated in the 2002 Annual Report and subsequent Reports that it is concerned by the absence of any procedure for ensuring that a person who is recommended by them to the Minister as being suitable for appointment, and who is subsequently appointed, undergoes any form of medical examination. The Board recommended in the 2002 Annual Report that the Government should consider whether the existing legislation should be amended so as to enable the Minister to require any person whom the Government proposed to advise the President to appoint to any judicial office to undergo a medical examination before his/her appointment is finalised. Consideration could also be given to the introduction of an administrative requirement for such a medical examination. The 2002 Annual Report indicated that improved procedures had been implemented whereby applicants are now asked to confirm that there is no reason connected with his/her health which would prevent the applicant from performing the functions connected with judicial office. The details supplied provide the Board with a more complete picture of the health of applicants whom they propose to recommend for appointment to the Minister. However, the Board is firmly of the view that it is not practical for the Board to arrange for the medical examination of all those whom it recommends. Furthermore, the Board is also of the view that the best practice in the case of both the public and private sectors is for a medical examination to be required of those whom it is proposed to appoint to positions of particular responsibility, rather than the candidates for the post. It should also be noted that the Board is strongly of the opinion that the anonymity of all the applicants who are recommended is best preserved if only the person whom the Government propose to advise the President to appoint to judicial office is subject to a medical examination.

Under Section 22 of the Standards in Public Office Act, 2001, the Board cannot recommend a person to the Minister unless that person has furnished to the Board a tax clearance certificate issued not more than eighteen months prior to the date of recommendation and a statutory declaration that their tax affairs are in order made by the applicant not more than one month before the date of recommendation. In practice, the tax clearance certificate is submitted with the application form and the Secretary to the Board writes to all applicants in advance of a Board meeting requesting them to furnish the statutory declaration. As indicated in the 2002 Annual Report and subsequent Reports, the requirement of a statutory declaration causes particular administrative difficulties, as it must be submitted within a very short time frame before the meeting of the Board. It can also cause difficulties for the Board because not all of the applications which are considered can be recommended, as a fresh statutory declaration may not have been filed by a particular applicant in the time frame allowed. The Board suggested in previous Annual Reports that the relevant legislation be amended by extending the duration of the validity of the statutory declaration from one month to three months. This amendment to the Standards in Public Office Act, 2001, has yet to be introduced and the Board strongly recommends that the legislation be amended without further delay.
